THEY BOW BEFORE HYMEN'S ALTAR

A very pretty wedding took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. P. B. Westerman on last Sunday, June 26, at 12:30 o'clock, when Miss Elfreda Pierson, one of Ukiah's fairest young women became the bride of P. H. Joseph, the popular manager of the Joseph Jewelry Company of this city.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Waggener of the M. E. Church South, in a very impressive manner. After receiving the congratulations and good wishes of their assembled friends, the young couple led the way to the dining room where a dainty wedding breakfast was served.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph were escorted to the train by the entire party, where they were liberally showered with rice and good wishes, until the train carried them away to spend their honeymoon visiting friends and relatives in San Francisco and Sacramento.

The happy pair were the recipients of many beautiful and useful gifts. Those who witnessed the ceremony were: Mr. and Mrs. Waggener, Mr. and Mrs. N. B. Kirtley, Mr. and Mrs. H. Marks, Mr. and Mrs. P. B. Westerman, Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Thomas, Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Babcock, Mrs. M. A. Henley, Misses Lena and Martha Brunner, Mary Waggener, Effie Cooper, Carrie Ganter, Ruth Joseph, Mamie Kirtley, Myrtle Lynch, Lucy Thompson of Covelo, Helen Westerman, Ora Muir; Dr. Robert Thomas and L. A. Henley.

Tracy-Noble Nuptials.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Noble was the scene of a very pretty wedding, Wednesday, June 29th, when their youngest daughter, Fannie Alice, was joined in holy wedlock to Arthur L. Tracy. Promptly at ten o'clock the wedding march was played and the bridal couple took their stand beneath a bell of ferns and sweet peas where they were pronounced man and wife. Having congratulated the newly wedded couple the guests adjourned to the dining room where a dainty lunch of ice cream and cake was served on a table profusely decorated with pink carnations and sweet peas.

A number of the guests hurried to the train to give the happy couple a shower of rice and old shoes but Mr. Tracy is too wise in the ways of this world to let a party of girls outwit him, so had his rig waiting in the side street, and as soon as the merry throng had departed for the depot, took his bride and drove quickly out of town, and was miles on his way to Cummings long ere the wedding guests discovered their mistake. However, a package of rice and old shoes went on the train to meet the bride and groom at Willits.

The guests were: Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Noble, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Bolster, Mrs. Heineken, Mrs. Haskins and little daughter, Misses Ruth Joseph, Eva Briggs Belle Smith, Priscillla White, Myrtle Lynch, Perle and Irene Henry, Alice Wilson Ethel, Cummings, and Messrs. W. H. McCrystle and Gerald Briggs.

The bride was one of Mendocino county's popular teachers and the groom is cashier of the Savings Bank of Mendociny County Their many friends wish them much happiness in their wedded life.

Popular Dentist Weds.

At the residence of the bride's parents in Cloverdale, the wedding of Miss Myrtle Graham and Dr. Charles Smith was solemnized at 8:30 Sunday morning. The bride was one of the handsomest of Sonoma's belles and is quite talented. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Smith of this city and has for sometime been practicing his profession in the city of oranges. The young couple, amid showers of rice and old shoes, took the noon train for this city and will pend their honeymoon at Blue lakes. The Grahams were formerly residents of this county, living at Point Arena. Sheriff Smith and Wallace Graham the father of the bride, were school mates in '65, so that this union will only more firmly cement the early friendship of the families.

Married.

At the home of Mrs. Lillie Mills, mother of the bride, June 29th by Rev. F. A. Houston, Mr. Charles B. Melville, of Willits, and Miss Ida C. Mills. Only a few of the near relatives and friends were present. The young couple left on the noon train for Willits, where a home is awaiting them. The groom is a prosperous young business man of Willits and is one of the proprietors of Melville's shingle mills.

Married.

June 11th by Rev. F. A. Houston, Ezekiel W. Smith and Emma L. Canfield, both of Hullville, Lake county, California.

The High School Vacancy.

There are quite a number of aspirants for the vacancy in the corps of professors of the Ukiah high school created by the marriage of Miss Elliott. George H. Rhodes is reported to have the inside track, however, as it is said that the new members of the board are pledged, as is also one old member. Mr. Rhodes has been in charge of the Ukiah Grammar school as principal for several years and all who are familiar with the work of the pupils know the position in which he has succeeded in placing that school in comparison with the other schools of the county. Mr. Rhodes' selection as a teacher of the high school could be taken as a guarantee that that institution would be placed and kept on a similar plane.

GUN THAT KILLED CHARLEY SOLAX

Robert Duncan has in his office a gun with a history. It is the gun with which Steve Tartar shot Charles Solax. The rifle had dropped out of sight and the officers were unable to find it. When the cabin occupied by Jones and Lambert was searched during the Finley trial the gun was found. It appears that when Jones, Lambert and Finley were on their way down the coast from Humboldt county they broke into Tartar's cabin and spent the night there. Finding the gun they appropriated it. The weapon is a 45-70 and is being held as evidence against Jones and Lambert, who are now wanted for complicity with Finley in the Drake murder.

Tracy Was Foxy.

Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Tracy played quite a joke on their friends Wednesday. It was expected that they would take the noon train for Willits on their way north for their honeymoon trip and consequently most of the old shoes in town and enough rice to prevent a famine in China were taken to the depot. Tracy, although new in this line of business, had flanked the movement and drove to Calpella, taking the train at that station. As train time approached and no Tracys appeared the crowd grew nervous and the situation was only relieved by the appearance of Mr. Melville and his bride. Some one spread the news and they were given the benefit of a double send off. One of the incidents of the occasion was that Mr. Melville's brother appeared on the scene and was mistaken for the groom by some of the girls and received quite a liberal donation of rice before he could explain matters.

A Thunder Storm.

The residents of Ukiah valley were treated to a thunder storm Wednesday night and quite a heavy rainfall was experienced early Thursday morning. A thunder storm during the summer is the exception here and it was the heaviest in years.

Dynamo Repaired.

Engineer Ferguson reports that the electric light plant is again in good shape, the small dynamo having been repaired this week.

ACCUSED FIRE-BUG IS HELD

L. E. Davis, who was arrested for being the incendiary who started the Hopland fire, was taken to that city Saturday by District Attorney Duncan. His preliminary examination was held before Justice Armsrong who held him over in $1000 bonds. Being unable to funish the amount he was returned to this city and lodged in jail to await trial in the superior court.

Evidence introduced at the examination showed that Davis had been employed by Duncan & Clendennin up to the day before the fire, when he was discharged for drunkenness. He is alleged to have stated in the presence of several that he would get even. He was put out of the barn half an hour before the fire and was seen coming down the railroad track toward the barn about fifteen minutes later and disappeared in the shadow of the depot.

About 12:30 Davis was found in Thatcher's stable. This was after the fire had been burning three quarters of an hour. Davis testified that after he was put out of the barn he went over back of the restaurant and went to sleep on the porch but this statement seems to be disproved by the testimony of others.

Davis was convicted of robbing the stage between this city and Willits in 1897 and sent to San Quentin for seven years. With credits he was released in less than five years. This case will probably not be tried until September or at least until after the vacation.

Union to Have Paper.

Articles of incorporation of the Mendocino County Publishing company were filed in the county clerk's office last week. The principal place of business is designated as Mendocino city and the term of incorporation is for 50 years. The capital stock is $10,000, of which $790 have been subscribed. The stockholders are as follows, the first eleven of whom are directors: A. J. Merrifield, F. L. Austin, John Jensen, A. L. Dennan, Benj. Siebe, J. M. Diale and Joe Rogers of Fort Bragg, E. P. Huntley, Mendocino; Paul Daly, Elk; C. W. Baily, San Francisco; Geo. C. Orne, Westport; J. Doyle, F. Olds, Dr. F. H. Sanborn, F. Gallagher, P. H. Anderson and C. Christian. The purpose of the publication is not stated but it is understood to be in the interests of union labor.

Will Rebuild.

H. P. Buckman has spent several days in town during the week getting estimates on buildings to take the place of those destroyed by fire on his block in Hopland. He will rebuild the stable first and may commence the new store building for Grant & Harris at the same time. Mr. Buckman is a progressive citizen and while the fire has left him a little short, he proposes to go right ahead rebuilding. He still has faith in Hopland and will keep up his end. Mr. Harris accompanied him to this city.

Will be Graduated.

Mrs. Porterfield reports that all the Ukiah grammar school scholars whose papers were handed in after being marked by the principal passed successfully after the papers were inspected by the board of education. There were nineteen successful out of a class of about thirty.

Handsome Prizes.

The Fourth of July committee has decided to offer two handsome prizes for the best decorated business houses. The first prize is a silver goblet and second a silver mug. They are very handsome trophies and are well worth working for.

In the Justice's Court.

Theodore Eastman was sentenced to twenty days in the county jail Wednesday morning ty Judge Crockett. The charge was vagrancy.

TO FORT BRAGG IN HALF A DAY.

The new road has been surveyed for shortening the distance between here and Willits over the Sherwood road, says the Fort Bragg Advocate. It will be sometime yet however, before the road will be completed, and regular passenger trains connected therewith. The passenger coach is completed and ready to be put on the railroad when the necessary changes are made in the Sherwood road. Len Banard will run wagons with a seating capacity of 14 passengers each over the 14 miles of road, forming the connecting links between the Fort Bragg railroad and Sherwood Valley railroad, owned by the California Northwestern Railway Company.

Fort Bragg will derive much benefit when this new road is in operation. The trip can be made easily in one day to San Francisco, from here with only about 14 miles of staging over one of the most scenic mountain roads in the State.

Passing of Mrs. Marders.

Mrs. Robert Marders passed from this life at her home in Potter on June 27th, the cause of death being pneumonia.

The deceased had been in poor health for some time and had been under medical care in San Francisco recently. The funeral took place from the Methodist Episcopal church in Potter valley Tuesday and the remains were followed to their last resting place by a large cortege of friends and neighbors.

Mrs. Robert Marders was born in Healdsburg October 22, 1854. She moved to Potter valley with her parents and was married in 1870. With her husband she went to reside in Yolo county, where they spent twelve years. From there they moved to Potter, where the deceased resided up to the time of her death.

She was the mother of four children —Colonel, Craig and Grace Marders and Mrs. Eugene Maze—all of whom are living.

The deceased leaves five sisters and two brothers, all of whom reside in Texas, except Mrs. James Cunningham of this city, who join a loving husband and family and a host of friends in mourning her loss.

A Good Joke.

Sheriff Smith always insists on having his little joke and his latest was perpetrated on his son, Charles. When the doctor arrived with his bride he went to his father to engage a team to take them to Blue lakes. As Sunday is a busy day in the livery business, all the rigs had been hired out, but Henry stroked his chin and said he would attend to it. Bright and early Sunday morning a double team and spring wagon, loaded with barley, appeared at the Smith residence. The doctor nearly fainted when he saw the rig but, as it was too late to secure any other conveyance, took the joke in good part and drove off. Mr. Smith states that he needed the barley at his stables at Blue lakes and that he also desired to impress the fact on his son that a married man must always keep busy.

A Good Position.

William Anthes left Sunday morning for Berenda, Madera county, where he has accepted a position in the train dispatcher's office of the Southern Pacific. Mr. Anthes had been in the local telegraph office under J. S. Hart for several months and under whose tutorage he became competent to fill his new position. Mr. Hart is regarded as one of the best instructors in the state, and is a swift himself. Mr. Halderman will fill the vacancy caused in this office.

Sweet Charity.

Quite a number of tickets have been sold in this city for the ball to be given in Hopland on July 8th for the benefit of the fire sufferers. Frank Dooley was in town last week selling tickets.

Another Victim of Alcohol.

Pete Nelson, an employee of the Northwestern Redwood company, was found dead near the railroad track running between that company's mill and Willits last Friday. Alcohol poisoning is thought to have been the cause of death. Nelson was a well known character around Willits and was an old time woodsman. He had been drinking heavily for some time and was in a despondent mood and had attempted suicide that morning in the Diamond D saloon. Two flasks of whiskey and an empty quart bottle were found beside the corpse and it is supposed that he had started for the mill company's camps. The deceased was the gentleman who took a shot at another resident of Willits during the snow storm in the early part of the year. The offender had thrown a snowball at him. Fortunately the bullet missed its mark.

ANIMAL FANCIERS LOSE THEIR PETS

The little rattle snake is no longer on exhibition at Harry Seim's. The other morning when Freeman Parker opened up he was confronted with a pair of glowing eyes and a rattle. He jumped back and grabbed a bottle from the bar, and after several attempts succeeded in landing on the snake with a flash of 1000 yard booze. The snake was cut in two and thoroughly killed. For some time there has been two rattlers in a glass case at the Palm—one very large and one very little. It seems that the smaller one had crawled up and got out of the air hole and was crawling over the barroom. Parker, on seeing the snake, thought it was the large one and concluded he was up against a battle royal.

For several months Ed Porter has had quite a menagerie back of his place of business. The greatest attraction was the cage containing the happy family, an owl and a coyote. They had been dwelling in peace and great was Mr. Porter's surprise Sunday morning when he went out to feed them to find that the owl had disappeared. Only a few feathers remained to tell the tale and the coyote wore a broad smile that indicated he had enjoyed a good meal.

Passing of Mrs. York.

Hattie C, wife of William York, died in this city June 27th of consumption. The deceased had been suffering for several years past and everything that could possibly be done for her was done. She spent several months in the southern part of the state in hopes of regaining her health but the change did her little good. The deceased was born in this valley in 1867 and was married in in 1887. Her husband and daughter, Emma, three sisters—Mrs. Sam Orr, Mrs. R. E. Donohoe and Mrs. Ella Knowles,—her mother, Mrs. Mankins, and brothers, Elbert and Ed, survive her. Mrs. York was a lady of kind and gentle disposition and was liked by all who knew her and her untimely demise is a sad loss to the community, as well as her family. The funeral services were conducted in the Baptist church. The ceremonies were conducted by Cornelia Rebekah lodge, of which the deceased was a devoted member.

Held to Answer.

Charles Dixon was arrested Friday in Willits on a charge of rape, the complaining witness being his ten-year-old daughter. The preliminary examination was held in Willits Wednesday before Judge Kenworthy and defendant was held to answer before the superior court. Dixon is about 50 years old and formerly resided on the coast.

Good Pear Crop

G. W. Miller, of the Santa Rosa cannery was, in town Tuesday and drove around looking over the pear orchards. Horticultural Commissioner Banks reports that Mr. Miller states that the crop in this valley will be one of the best he has seen for quality.

RAILROAD TALK IS AGAIN IN THE AIR

If matters turn out as the Santa Fe authorities hope, the construction of the proposed railroad that is to afford rail transportation to Eureka will be undertaken jointly by the Santa Fe and Southern Pacific. The information was made public yesterday that President Ripley, of the Santa Fe, and President Harriman, of the Southern Pacific, are conferring on the matter in New York this week, says the Chronicle.

Ripley has submitted to Harriman, or will submit to him within a day or two, the completed survey and estimates for the proposed road north of Willits, as prepared by Engineer Storey. According to survey, which has been formally approved by the Santa Fe directors, the Santa Fe's proposed line from the connection with the Eel River road south to Willits will be 125 miles long, and the estimates show that the work will cost at least $6,000,000. From the Eel river connection northward into Eureka the distance over the the present line is 35 miles, some of which will have to be reconstructed.

The Santa Fe has thus far given comparatively little thought to the matter of building this side of Willits, hoping that some arrangement might be reached whereby the paralleling of the California Northwestern might be avoided. The Santa Fe is now ready to begin work on the construction of the line from Humboldt county south to Willits. In fact, it already has a considerable force engaged in tunnel work near Pepperwood, Humboldt county. Before going further, the company wants to know exactly where it stands and whether or not there are going to be parallel lines to Eureka.

The attitude of President Ripley of the Santa Fe is declared to be somewhat in the nature of the following: He takes the position that one line of railroad between San Francisco and Eureka is sufficient to handle the traffic of Humboldt county for many years to come, and that the building of rival parallel lines by the Southern Pacific and Santa Fe would be a reckless expenditure of money without any compensating advantages. He therefore wants Harriman to co-operate in the building of the line between Willits and Pepperwood, the road, when completed, to be operated jointly by the two companies for their mutual advantage and profit. Or he is willing to enter into an arrangement with Harriman whereby the construction of the line north of Willits will be undertaken and carried to completion by the Santa Fe, the Santa Fe to give the Southern Pacific trackage or traffic rates over the line between Willits and Eureka in return for similar rights over the California Northwestern. Such an arrangement would relieve the Southern Pacific of the necessity of building 165 miles of track from Willits to Eureka and would relieve the Santa Fe of the necessity of paralleling the 125 miles of California Northwestern track south of Willits.

Just what will be the outcome of the peaceful negotiations between Ripley and Harriman is a matter for speculation, but in view of the fact that the plan of settlement proposed by Ripley will effect a saving of $9,000,000 or $10,000,000 in construction, not to mention the saving in operating and maintenance expenses after the road is completed, there is a growing impression in railroad circles that a peaceful adjustment of the troublous situation will be reached before long.

As Presiding Elder.

Rev. Waggener preached his farewell sermon Sunday and left yesterday for Chico to make arrangements for assuming duties as presiding elder of the Colusa district. The reverend gentleman has made many friends during his stay here who will regret to see him leave. His family will remain here for the present at least.

Rail Road Men

In all departments of active service stand in need of the readiness of mind and promptness of action which depend on a healthy nervous system. Let a railroad man be "rattled," and every life depending on him is in danger. A great many railroad men have found in Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery a valuable tonic for the overstrained nervous system. It builds up the body, purifies the blood, nourishes the nerves, and induces a healthy appetite and refreshing sleep.

"I suffered for six years with constipation and indigestion, during which time I employed several physicians, but they could not reach my case," writes Mr. G. Popplewell, of Eureka Springs, Carroll Co., Ark. "I felt that there was no help for me; could not retain food on my stomach; had vertigo and would fall helpless to the floor. Two years ago I commenced taking Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and little 'Pellets,' and improved from the start. After taking twelve bottles of the 'Discovery' I was able to do light work, and have been improving ever since."

which might easily be fanned into a dangerous flame of vengeance. He was very anxious to have the formalities of taking possession of the fort over with, so that he could the better control his forces. Sending for Beverley, he assigned him to the duty of hauling down the British flag and running up that of Virginia. It was an honor of no doubtful sort, which under different circumstances would have made the lieutenant's heart glow. As it was he proceeded without any sense of pride or pleasure, moving as a mere machine in performing an act significant beyond any other done west of the mountains in the great struggle for American independence and the control of American territory.

Hamilton stood a little way from the foot of the tall flagpole, his arms folded on his breast, his chin slightly drawn in, his brows contracted, gazing steadily at Beverley while he was untying the halyard, which had been wound around the pole's base about three feet above the ground. The American troops in the fort were disposed so as to form three sides of a low square, facing inward. Oncle Jazon, serving as the ornamental extreme of one line, was conspicuous for his outlandish garb and unmilitary bearing. The silence inside the stockade offered a strong contrast to the tremendous roar of voices outside. Clark made a signal, and at the tap of a drum Beverley shook the ropes loose and began to lower the British colors. Slowly the bright emblem of earth's mightiest nation crept down in token of the fact that a handful of backwoodsmen had won an empire by a daring stroke of pure heroism. Beverley detached the flag and, saluting, handed it to Colonel Clark. Hamilton's breast heaved and his iron jaws opened their pressure until the lines in his cheeks were deep furrows of rage.

Just then there was a birdlike movement, a winglike rustle, and a light figure flitted swiftly across the area. All eyes were turned upon it. Hamilton paled, as pale as death, half lifting his hands as if to ward off a deadly blow, and then a gay flag was flung over his head. He saw before him the girl he had shot, but her beautiful face was not waxen now, nor was it cold or lifeless. The rich red blood showed strong under the browned yet delicate skin, the eyes were bright and merry, the cherry lips, slightly apart, gave a glimpse of pearl white teeth, and the dimples—those roguish dimples—twinkled sweetly.

Colonel Clark looked on in amazement and in spite of himself in admiration. He did not understand. The sudden incident had bewildered him, but his virile nature was instantly and wholly charmed. Something like a breath of violets shook the tenderest chords of his heart.

Alice stood firmly, a statue of triumph, her right arm outstretched, holding the flag high above Hamilton's head, and close by her side the little hunchback Jean was posed in his most characteristic attitude, gazing at the banner which he himself had stolen and kept hidden for Alice's sake and because he loved it.

There was a dead silence for some moments, during which Hamilton's face showed that he was ready to collapse. Then the keen voice of Oncle Jazon broke forth:

"Vive Zhorzh Vasinton! Vive la bannière d'Alice Roussillon!"

He sprang to the middle of the area and flung his old cap high in air, with a shrill war whoop.

"H'ist it, h'ist it! Hissez la bannière de Mlle. Alice Roussillon! Voila, que c'est glorieuse, cette bannière la! H'ist it, h'ist it!"

He was dancing with a rickety liveliness, his goatish legs and shriveled body giving him the look of an emaciated satyr.

Clark had been told by some of his creole officers the story of how Alice raised the flag when Helm took the fort and how she snatched it from Hamilton's hand, as it were, and would not give it up when he demanded it. The whole situation pretty soon began to explain itself, as he saw what Alice was doing. Then he heard her say to Hamilton while she slowly swayed the rippling flag back and forth:

"I said, as you will remember, M. le Gouverneur, that when you next should see this flag I should wave it over your head. Well, look. I am waving it. Vive la republique! Vive George Washington! What do you think of it, M. le Gouverneur?"

The poor little hunchback Jean took off his cap and tossed it in rhythmical emphasis, keeping time to her words.

And now from behind the hollow square came a mighty voice:

"C'est moi, Gaspard Roussillon; me voici, messieurs!"

There was a spirit in the air which caught from Alice a thrill of romantic energy. The men in the ranks and the officers in front of them felt a wave of irresistible sympathy sweep through their hearts. Her picturesque beauty, her fine temper, the fitness of the incident to the occasion, had an instantaneous power which moved all men alike.

"Raise her flag! Run up the young lady's flag!" some one shouted. And then every voice seemed to echo the words. Clark was a young man of noble type, in whose veins throbbed the warm, chivalrous blood of the cavaliers. A waft of the suddenly prevailing influence bore him also quite off his feet. He turned to Beverley and said:

"Do it! It will have a great effect. It is a good idea. Get the young lady's flag and her permission to run it up."

Before he finished speaking—indeed at the first glance—he saw that Beverley, like Hamilton, was white as a dead man, and at the same time it came to his memory that his young friend had confided to him during the awful march through the prairie wilderness a love story about this very Alice Roussillon. In the worry and stress of the subsequent struggle he had forgotten the tender basis upon which Beverley had rested his excuse for leaving Vincennes. Now it all reappeared in justification of what was going on. It touched the romantic core of his southern nature.

"I say, Lieutenant Beverley," he repeated, "beg the young lady's permission to use her flag upon this glorious occasion, or shall I do it for you?"

There were no miracles in those brave days, and the strain of life with its terrible realities braced all men and women to meet sudden explosions of surprise, whether of good or bad effect, with admirable equipoise, but Beverley's trial, it must be admitted, was extraordinary. Still he braced himself quickly and his whole expression changed when Clark moved to go to Alice. For he realized now that it was indeed Alice in flesh and blood, standing there, the center of admiration, filling the air with her fine magnetism and crowning a great triumph with her beauty. He gave her a glad, flashing smile, as if he had just discovered her, and walked straight to her, his hands extended. She was not looking toward him, but she saw him and turned to face him. Hers was the advantage, for she had known for some hours of his presence in Vincennes and had prepared herself to meet him courageously and with maidenly reserve.

There is no safety, however, where love lurks. Neither Beverley nor Alice was as much agitated as Hamilton, yet they both forgot, what he remembered, that a hundred grim frontier soldiers were looking on. Hamilton had his personal and official dignity to sustain, and he fairly did it under what a pressure of humiliating and surprising circumstances we can fully comprehend. Not so with the two young people, standing as it were in a suddenly bestowed and incomparable happiness on the verge of a new life, each to the other an unexpected, unhoped for resurrection from the dead. To them there was no universe save the illimitable expanse of their love. In that moment of meeting all that they had suffered on account of love was transfused and poured forth, a glowing libation for love's sake, a flood before which all barriers broke.

Father Beret was looking on with a strange fire in his eyes, and what he feared would happen did happen. Alice let the flag fall at Hamilton's feet, when Beverley came near her smiling that great, glad smile, and with a joyous cry leaped into his outstretched arms.

He saw before him the girl he had shot.

Jean snatched up the fallen banner and ran to Colonel Clark with it. Two minutes later it was made fast, and the halyard began to squeak through the rude pulley at the top of the pole. Up, up climbed the gay little emblem of glory, while the cannon crashed from the embrasures of the blockhouse hard by, and outside the roar of voices redoubled. Thirteen guns boomed the salute, though it should have been fourteen, the additional one for the great northwestern territory that day annexed to the domain of the young American republic. The flag went up at old Vincennes never to come down again, and when it reached its place at the top of the staff Beverley and Alice stood side by side looking at it, while the sun broke through the clouds and flashed on its shining folds, and love unabashed glorified the two strong, young faces.

Excursions to the East.

Those contemplating an eastern trip will be interested to know that the Rio Grande system is operating via the scenic line of the world daily excursion cars through from the Pacific coast without change to Denver, Kansas City, Omaha, Chicago, St. Louis, New York, Boston and intermediate points. These are the Pullman ordinary or tourist sleepers, provided with comfortable berths, bedding and linen of the Pullman standard. They have separate lavatories, are well lighted and heated, and in act only differ from the more expensive standard cars in the character of the upholstery and inside finishing. Besides the colored porter, an excursion manager accompanies the cars for the sole purpose of looking after the welfare and comfort of his party. There is no charge beyond the regular railroad and sleeping car rates to those who accompany these excursions. If you are interested, let us quote you the lowest rates and give you more details, and also furnish you with illustrated books descriptive of the grandest mountain scenery on the American continent. ARMIES BATTLE FOR SUPREMACY

Three Hundred Thousand Men Engage in Conflict--Japs Win Skirmishes.

St. Petersburg, June 28.—Lieutenant-General Sakharoff's dispatch received last night confirms the belief that the great decisive battle of the campaign between General Kuropatkin's main army and the armies of Generals Kuroki and Oku is imminent. The three armies aggregate 300,000 men and their outposts are in touch all along the line. The Japanese evidently tried to draw Kuropatkin as far south as possible, holding out as an incentive a check to the advance of Oku's main army.

Meantime Oku swung sharply to the eastward to join Kuroki toward the Chapan pass, Kuroki at the same time moving a strong force by the right flank toward Hai Cheng.

The main Japanese advance continues along the main Feng Wang Cheng-Liao Yang road, avoiding the Mao Tien pass by a detour to the northward. The advance at all points is being attended by skirmishing.

Nothing is known here of the exact point at which Kuropatkin's main force is concentrated, though it is believed that a large part of the Liao Yang force has been moved to a point between Kinchou and Ta-che-Kiao.

According to a press dispatch from Ta-che-Kiao, a large force has pushed southward from Ta-che-Kiao against Oku. While Kuropatkin is thus extending himself the Japanese with great mobility seem to be trying to concentrate for the purpose of striking the Russians in flank and rear.

Little Light on Sea Fight.

Viceroy Alexieff's message to St. Petersburg last night, with the brief dispatch from Rear-Admiral Witsoeft (naval commander at Port Arthur), throws little additional light on the sea fight off Port Arthur. The admiralty and the emperor are awaiting further details with the same eagerness as the general public. The latter yesterday for the first time received information through the mediums of foreign telegrams that a fight has occurred.

Reports Mystify Authorities.

The loss of three vessels of the Port Arthur fleet is admitted to be a severe blow, especially if not purchased by greater loss to the Japanese than reported by Vice-Admiral Togo.

The meagerness of the report is mystifying the authorities, who continue to believe there has been a later fight which has not been reported.

In the absence of further information the admiralty is not disposed to criticise, although it is admitted to have been unfortunate for the squadron at such a critical time that its commander should be an officer like Witsoeft, who, though personally a brave sailor, never before flew his flag over a squadron. It is pointed out that he could not have been forced to get out of Port Arthur, as the situation there is not yet by any means desperate.

Battleships in Dry Dock.

The Associated Press has received a curious dispatch from a Russian correspondent at Vladivostok, who took pains to say that Vice-Admiral Skrydloff's squadron will probably be unable to go out again for weeks, as the ships had to go into dry dock for the purpose of thoroughly overhauling their boilers and cleaning their hulls preparatory to putting to sea to meet the Baltic squadron.

The dispatch added that some of the torpedo boats have been battered by the storm during the last expedition to the Japanese coast. In conclusion the correspondent says that nothing has been heard of Vice-Admiral Kamimura's squadron.

The statement that Prince Jaime of Bourbon was an eye-witness to the killing of Russian wounded at Vafangow attracts considerable attention in official circles, as the character of such testimony cannot be ignored. Official action, however, is likely to be deferred until the reports of the Russian commanders have been received.

HEADED HER OWN CARAVAN.

Remarkable Journey of St. Louis Woman Through Abyssinia.

London, June 28.—Mrs. W. N. MacMillan of St. Louis reached London yesterday after traversing Abyssinia at the head of her own caravan. This American is the first white woman to cross Emperor Menelik's country from west to east. She accompanied the expedition organized by her husband in November, 1903, so far as Pokum, at the base of the Abyssinian hills. Then Mr. MacMillan started for Lake Rudolf and his wife went to Adis Adeba, the capital of Abyssinia, where she had a special audience with the emperor. Mrs. MacMillan's caravan took four weeks to journey from Pokum to the capital. The American met with every courtesy by the Abyssinian chiefs while on her way, and although she traversed a country supposed to be inhabited by hostile tribes, she saw no signs of unfriendliness. On the contrary, hundreds of supposed hostiles gathered and formed a guard of honor for the caravan for miles along the river banks. Mrs. MacMillan sailed for New York today.
